

David Jiang

2832 Seadrift Circle Hayward, CA 94545

Phone: 510-996-2119 E-Mail: dnjiang@stanford.edu

Experience

StartX – Full-Stack Developer

2014-2015

- Re-designed application processing for the accelerator program using online tools
- Prototyped and built an online system on Ruby on Rails to aid in processing applications

The Dish Daily – Front-End Developer

2013-2014

- Developed online platform for campus news website on top of Wordpress.
- Built custom Wordpress theme using HTML5/CSS3 and PHP

Projects

Mobile Innovation Group (mig.stanford.edu)

2015

- Created online platform using HTML5/CSS3/Javascript for mobile innovation research group in the Stanford Economics department.

Rally (gorally.me)

2013-2014

- Developed social web application to help friends plan spontaneous activities together
- Built on top of Node.js (MongoDB on back-end, HTML-handlebars front-end)

ASES Summit

2012-2015

- Developed static marketing website for international entrepreneurship conference at Stanford (asessummit.stanford.edu) with HTML5/CSS3 (SASS)
- Created dynamic application-tracking tool using Ruby on Rails and Ember.js

Education

Stanford University

2012-2016

- B.S. in Computer Science expected June 2016. GPA: 3.6
- Undergraduate Coursework: Probability for Computer Scientists, Mathematical Foundations of Computing, Computer Organization and Systems, Web Applications, Introduction to Databases, Design and Analysis of Algorithms, Programming Abstractions, Perception (Psychology), Human-Computer Interaction Design, Object-Oriented Systems Design, Linear Algebra.

Skills

- HTML5 and CSS3
- Sass/LESS
- jQuery
- Node.js
- Ruby on Rails
- Python
- Javascript
- C/C++/Java
- Design Thinking